

Boots

Dad used to put his old boots in the garden to scare the rabbits away.
For years I wondered if it really worked.
Cool and dewy April morning,
sitting on the porch,
misty gray clouds holding off the sun.
A small gray cottontail skips by,
sniffs a boot, and turns to me to say,
"Thanks anyway, not my size."